COUNT SIXTY

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of FALSIFYING BUSINESS RECORDS IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of section 175.10 of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about August 8, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, with intent to defraud, which included an intent to commit another crime, or to aid or conceal the commission of another crime, did omit to make a true entry in the business records of an enterprise in violation of a duty to do so which he knew to be imposed upon him by law or by the nature of his position, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to defraud and with intent to conceal the crime of official misconduct, did refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System on the computer terminal of his patrol car after departing the scene of an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 110447340). After departing the scene, the defendant continued to transmit his patrol status as being present at the event scene for approximately thirty-four further minutes. During that time period, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1, with whom he was fostering and/or maintaining a sexual relationship. The above conduct caused the records of the NCPD Communications Bureau to inaccurately reflect that the defendant was still working on the dispatch event during those thirty-four minutes and that the dispatch event had not yet been resolved.

COUNT SIXTY-ONE

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of OFFICIAL MISCONDUCT, in violation of section 195.00(2) of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about August 8, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, being a public servant, with intent to obtain a benefit or deprive another person of a benefit, did knowingly refrain from performing a duty which was imposed upon him by law or was clearly inherent in the nature of his office, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to foster and/or maintain a sexual relationship with Confidential Witness No. 1, did knowingly refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System via his patrol vehicle's computer terminal after departing the location of an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 110447340). After departing the event scene, the defendant continued to transmit his patrol status as being present at the event scene for approximately thirty-four further minutes. During that time period, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1. The above conduct permitted the defendant to spend that period of time at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1 without taking a posted break period.

COUNT SIXTY-TWO

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of FALSIFYING BUSINESS RECORDS IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of section 175.10 of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about September 18, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, with intent to defraud, which included an intent to commit another crime, or to aid or conceal the commission of another crime, did omit to make a true entry in the business records of an enterprise in violation of a duty to do so which he knew to be imposed upon him by law or by the nature of his position, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to defraud and with intent to conceal the crime of official misconduct, did refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System on the computer terminal of his patrol car after transporting an individual in connection with an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 110544607). After transporting an individual, the defendant continued to transmit his patrol status as transporting for approximately fifty further minutes. During that time period, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1, with whom he was fostering and/or maintaining a sexual relationship. The above conduct caused the records of the NCPD Communications Bureau to inaccurately reflect that the defendant was still transporting an individual in relation to the dispatch event during those fifty minutes and that the transporting had not yet been completed.

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of OFFICIAL MISCONDUCT, in violation of section 195.00(2) of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about October 29, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, being a public servant, with intent to obtain a benefit or deprive another person of a benefit, did knowingly refrain from performing a duty which was imposed upon him by law or was clearly inherent in the nature of his office, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to foster and/or maintain a sexual relationship with Confidential Witness No. 1, did knowingly refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System via his patrol vehicle's computer terminal after departing the location of an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 110624770). After departing the event scene, the defendant continued to transmit his patrol status as being present at the event scene for approximately one hour and twenty-two further minutes. During that time period, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1. The above conduct permitted the defendant to spend that period of time at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1 without taking a posted break period.

COUNT SIXTY-SIX

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of TAMPERING WITH PUBLIC RECORDS IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of section 175.25 of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about August 8, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, knowing that he did not have the authority of anyone entitled to grant it, and with intent to defraud, knowingly removed, mutilated, destroyed, concealed, made a false entry in or falsely altered any record or other written instrument filed with, deposited in, or otherwise constituting a record of a public office or public servant, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), with intent to defraud, did knowingly make a false entry in the Nassau County Police Department Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) system, sending a transmission from the computer terminal of his patrol vehicle to NCPD Communications Bureau that he was "en route" to the location of a dispatched event (CAD Event 110447456), when in fact the defendant was stationary and remained stationary for approximately nine minutes following such transmission at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1, with whom he was fostering and/or maintaining an sexual relationship, while knowing that he did not have authority to transmit such status without actually being en route to the scene. The above conduct caused the records of the NCPD Communications Bureau to inaccurately reflect that the defendant was en route to the dispatch event during that time period.

COUNT SIXTY-SEVEN

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of FALSIFYING BUSINESS RECORDS IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of section 175.10 of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about August 8, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, with intent to defraud, including the intent to commit another crime, or to aid or conceal the commission of another crime, did make or cause a false entry in the business records of an enterprise, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), with intent to defraud, did knowingly make a false entry in the Nassau County Police Department Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) system, sending a transmission from the computer terminal of his patrol vehicle to NCPD Communications Bureau that he was “en route” to the location of a dispatched event (CAD Event 110447456), when in fact the defendant was stationary and remained stationary for approximately nine minutes following such transmission at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 1, with whom he was fostering and/or maintaining an sexual relationship, while knowing that he did not have authority to transmit such status without actually being en route to the scene. The above conduct caused the records of the NCPD Communications Bureau to inaccurately reflect that the defendant was en route to the dispatch event during that time period.

COUNT SIXTY-EIGHT

COUNT NINETY-THREE

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of OFFICIAL MISCONDUCT, in violation of section 195.00(2) of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about January 31, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, being a public servant, with intent to obtain a benefit or deprive another person of a benefit, did knowingly refrain from performing a duty which was imposed upon him by law or was clearly inherent in the nature of his office, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to foster and/or maintain a sexual relationship with Confidential Witness No. 2, did knowingly refrain from responding to a patrol dispatch from NCPD Communications Bureau (Event No. 110057619), which was directed to him, for approximately eight minutes after initially receiving said dispatch, instead spending that time at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2.

COUNT NINETY-FOUR

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of FALSIFYING BUSINESS RECORDS IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of section 175.10 of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about November 2, 2010, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, with intent to defraud, which included an intent to commit another crime, or to aid or conceal the commission of another crime, did omit to make a true entry in the business records of an enterprise in violation of a duty to do so which he knew to be imposed upon him by law or by the nature of his position, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to defraud and with intent to conceal the crime of official misconduct, did refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System on the computer terminal of his patrol car after departing the scene of an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 100666756). After departing the scene, the defendant continued to transmit his patrol status as being present at the event scene for approximately thirty-seven further minutes. During that time period, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2, with whom he was fostering and/or maintaining a sexual relationship. The above conduct caused the records of the NCPD Communications Bureau to inaccurately reflect that the defendant was still working on the dispatch event during those approximate thirty-seven minutes and that the dispatch event had not yet been resolved.

COUNT NINETY-FIVE

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of OFFICIAL MISCONDUCT, in violation of section 195.00(2) of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about November 2, 2010, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, being a public servant, with intent to obtain a benefit or deprive another person of a benefit, did knowingly refrain from performing a duty which was imposed upon him by law or was clearly inherent in the nature of his office, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to foster and/or maintain a sexual relationship with Confidential Witness No. 2, did knowingly refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System via his patrol vehicle's computer terminal after departing the location of an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 100666756). After departing the event scene, the defendant continued to transmit his patrol status as being present at the event scene for approximately thirty-one further minutes. During that time period, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2. The above conduct permitted the defendant to spend that period of time at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2 without taking a posted break period.

COUNT NINETY-SIX

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of FALSIFYING BUSINESS RECORDS IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of section 175.10 of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about November 17, 2010, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, with intent to defraud, which included an intent to commit another crime, or to aid or conceal the commission of another crime, did omit to make a true entry in the business records of an enterprise in violation of a duty to do so which he knew to be imposed upon him by law or by the nature of his position, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to defraud and with intent to conceal the crime of official misconduct, did refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System on the computer terminal of his patrol car in connection with an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 100696904). The defendant posted his patrol status as "en route" for approximately forty-six minutes, during such time, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2, with whom he was fostering and/or maintaining a sexual relationship. The above conduct caused the records of the NCPD Communications Bureau to inaccurately reflect that the defendant was still en route to the dispatch event during those approximate forty-six minutes.

COUNT NINETY-SEVEN

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of OFFICIAL MISCONDUCT, in violation of section 195.00(2) of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about November 17, 2010, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, being a public servant, with intent to obtain a benefit or deprive another person of a benefit, did knowingly refrain from performing a duty which was imposed upon him by law or was clearly inherent in the nature of his office, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to foster and/or maintain a sexual relationship with Confidential Witness No. 2, did knowingly refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System via his patrol vehicle's computer terminal in connection with an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 100696904). The defendant posted his patrol status as "en route" for approximately forty-six minutes, during such time, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2. The above conduct permitted the defendant to spend that period of time at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2 without taking a posted break period.

COUNT NINETY-EIGHT

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NASSAU, by this indictment, further accuses the defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, of the crime of FALSIFYING BUSINESS RECORDS IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of section 175.10 of the Penal Law of the State of New York, committed as follows:

The defendant, MICHAEL TEDESCO, on or about February 15, 2011, in the County of Nassau, State of New York, with intent to defraud, which included an intent to commit another crime, or to aid or conceal the commission of another crime, did omit to make a true entry in the business records of an enterprise in violation of a duty to do so which he knew to be imposed upon him by law or by the nature of his position, to wit: the defendant, a police officer with the Nassau County Police Department (NCPD), while on duty and assigned to patrol, with intent to defraud and with intent to conceal the crime of official misconduct, did refrain from updating his patrol-availability status in the NCPD Computer Aided Dispatch System on the computer terminal of his patrol car after transporting an individual in connection with an NCPD Communications Bureau Dispatch Event (Event No. 110086538). After transporting an individual, the defendant continued to transmit his patrol status as transporting for approximately twenty-eight further minutes. During that time period, the defendant travelled to and stayed at the residence of Confidential Witness No. 2, with whom he was fostering and/or maintaining a sexual relationship. The above conduct caused the records of the NCPD Communications Bureau to inaccurately reflect that the defendant was still transporting an individual in relation to the dispatch event during those approximate twenty-eight minutes and that the transporting had not yet been completed.

COUNT NINETY-NINE
